SPEAKER:

The Bandung Sea of Fire

The Bandung Sea of Fire is a famous historical event in Indonesian history. The name, the Bandung Sea of Fire refers to the burning down of a part of Bandung during the Indonesian struggle for independence.

The event was triggered by an ultimatum given by the British commander in Bandung. He demanded the Indonesian troops to leave the city because they refused to hand over their weapons to the Allies. Indonesian fighters and Bandung residents decided to burn down the area as they retreated from Bandung on the 24th of March in 1945, to prevent it being used by the Allies.

Mohammad Toha, a young soldier, sneaked into the Dutch military headquarters in Dayeuh Kolot and ignited dynamite in the ammunitions warehouse. The explosion destroyed the warehouse, killed several Allied troops and unfortunately killed him too. In honour of his brave action, the main street in the area was named "Mohammad Toha" Street.

The Bandung Sea of fire is proof that Indonesian independence was not given freely but was gained at the cost of many lives and a lot of destruction.
